HONGKONG, MAY 15, 1865.

THE French Opera Company will give their last performance this evening. To those who can appreciate that humorous fancy and volatile caprice for which the French are so remarkably amusing, we should say that an opportunity is presented in this evening's programme which is not very likely to occur again. There is some exquisite music in the selection also.

THE steamer Lightning, Capt. Rogers arrived from Calcutta on Saturday, having left that port on the 27th ultimo. The latest telegrams that we can find in our files, come down to the 19th April from London, and to the 8th idem from New York.

A slip of the Straits Times was delivered to us on the Lightning's arrival, and was immediately circulated. This embraced a sad jumble of telegrams, which we shall attempt to unravel.

The reader will please remember that our latest telegrams previously in the Lightning's arrival were from London to the 13th April and from New York to the 5th idem, and that these advised the fall of Richmond and of Petersburg and the retreat of Lee on Lynchburg. The Lightning's telegrams are six days later from London, and only three from New York. Now if the reader will take the trouble to peruse an article which we reproduce below from the Bengal Hurkaru of the 22nd April, he will obtain some little insight into the relative positions of the two belligerents, and then he will be the more capable of comprehending the following busy telegram, which comprises the whole of the additional intelligence brought on by the Lightning.

To Englishman Office, Calcutta.

[REUTER.]

LONDON, 10th April, 8.50 P.M.

"New York 8th.—Pursuit of Lee continues. Sheridan overtook and routed him near Burk. Early. Sheridan thinks Lee will surrender.

Sheridan advancing. Baleigh attack near Mobile, commenced."

It seems very clear indeed to us, that Lee deliberately evacuated both Richmond and Petersburg, and that he was making an orderly retreat on Lynchburg, which he had previously fortified so strongly that Sheridan, who does not stick at trifles, declined to attack it. We all know what Lee's retreats are.

The first telegram given in the slips of the Straits Times above referred to, was taken from the Calcutta papers, where even there it has no date. The London mails of the 4th April reached Bombay on the 25th April, as was announced in the Calcutta papers of the day following. This telegram being marked via Bombay, and appearing in the Calcutta papers of the 27th, evidently came by this opportunity, and being marked Reuter, must come down to about 11th April from London. These although eight days older than the telegrams via Persia, tell us several things we did not know previously, and having Reuter's name to them are reliable.

They tell us that the attempt made to form a junction between Grant and Sheridan had failed, and that Sheridan was reported to have been driven from Goldsboro, with heavy loss. We also see that drafts had commenced to be made in New York, and that there was no opposition.

As for other political matters—the Pope's occupation of Rome appears to be highly precarious. The intention of the Emperor of the French to withdraw his troops seems to have caused a ferment of all the elements interested in this question. The Pope still clings to the cry of non possumus. His Holiness declares that the French troops cannot go—that he cannot raise troops to put down revolution—that he cannot stop in Rome if the French troops evacuate—and so on. Meanwhile news comes that the Papal States are invaded by Brigands; and that the French troops are employed to eject them. The English Government offer the Pope sanctuary, and the Spanish Governor have declared their intention of ceding the Balearic Isles to the Holy Father, should he be compelled to leave Rome.

As for commercial news, the following additional failures are announced. Bell Mills & Co. Liverpool. Neils Drachere Liverpool. J. Logan, Glasgow. Two failures are reported in Calcutta. Hadjee Zachariah Mahomed, and Hadjee Amut, both men of repute and a short time since of great wealth.

On the 13th April Cotton in London was reported steady. On the 12th April it was quoted a half-penny for short staple to one penny for long do. lower. On the 10th Dhollera was quoted 9¼d which was a fall of 1d from the 13th.

The Lightning brings 700 ch. Patna and 550 do. Benares. The United Service sails from Calcutta on 25th Ulto. or two days before the Lightning. She had not reached Singapore when the Lightning left. She has 800 ch. Patna and 205 do. Benares for Hongkong—also about 900 bags Saltpetre.

On the 21st Ulto. the Bombay quotations were—Exchange, on England 2s, on Calcutta 102—on China 214. Malwa 1340 a 1350.

The steamer Singapore sailed from Bombay for China as an extra steamer on the 24th ulto. on which day the Ottawa arrived from this.

Since writing the above the Singapore has arrived. She has no later intelligence, and the only additional item of news which we can glean from our files of the Colombo Observer, is that Sir Harry Parkes succeeds Sir Rutherford Alcock as Minister at Japan.

THE Sappers are to commence pulling down the Theatre on the morning of the 19th inst. General Guy argues with great force that the erection obstructs the ventilation, and it certainly seems rather odd that the advantage of a sea front should be spoiled by an enormous mat shed. Assuredly no marine lot holder will permit such a thing if he could help it, and as the General's first care is the health of the troops, it is folly to expect that he will grant an extension of time to the French Opera, or to any other theatrical troupe.

Mr. Lewis' company have been solicited to give a performance, but he very properly declined—at least so we are told, but we do not believe it.

THERE have been some very bold robberies here lately. One occurred on Friday night at the Hotel D'Europe. Another at Mr. Caupp's house in open daylight—and another at Mr. Storey's house, also in broad daylight.

If Governors of Colonies were promoted because of their conduct in managing the duties of their office, instead of for betraying the interests confided to them by subserving the crotchets of their master in Downing Street, we should find an improved state of affairs.

MESSRS. Russell & Co. have purchased the steamer Lancefield at Shanghai, with the intention, it is said of running her to San Francisco. She is no doubt a very fine vessel, but we should say that her passenger capacity is defective for the intended experiment.

WE again raise a warning voice against the growing system of the officers of the local government making political capital for themselves by a treacherous performance of their duties.

We have already detailed the case of the rendition of the Mo Wong, whom Mr. Mercer surrendered, we make no doubt, simply to subserve the peculiar neutrality observed by the Dutch. We all know that Mr. Mercer is in keen pursuit of promotion, and the palace influence of the Bruces will naturally be of great assistance.

And by the way,—we have a question to ask Mr. Mercer. He surrendered the Mo Wong, on a trumped up charge of piracy, the Chinese punishment for which is decapitation. Is Mr. Mercer aware that the Mandarins cut the man to pieces, which is the punishment for rebellion? That is to say, the rendition was made on one charge, and the trial was conducted on another! There is some vile neutrality displayed here. We should hope that even with the certainty of promotion in view, Mr. Mercer will never again surrender a prisoner to the demand of the Canton Mandarins.

It is needless to add that the rendition of the Mo Wong was calculated to effect a most prejudicial result on the prosperity of this colony. That is to say, it produced the apparent effect of placing the persons of all the Chinese residents in Hongkong at the mercy of the Mandarins.

And surely no one can suppose for one moment that Mr. Mercer was actuated in making the rendition by any other idea than that of his own promotion. He, the disciple of Colonel Caine, the warm friend of Dr. Bridges, the advocate of Mr. Caldwell, the tolerator and the tool too of Mah-chow Wong! No-no we think such a supposition too strong even for a freemason!

Therefore, we say that our charge lies heavily on him. He is paid to serve the interests of the colony—in this matter he served other interests, and he deeply injured the colony.

We understand that another case has occurred which tends strongly to bear upon our warning, and although we hold a high opinion of Mr. Ball's legal attainments and independence on the Bench, we are nevertheless aware that he is very anxious to obtain the appointment of Chief Justice.

The story as we hear it is simply this. Mr. Clement Smale was employed to obtain juice for some poor man whom a British Consul had wronged. Mr. Smale wrote the Consul a "lawyer's letter," couched in rather strong terms. This letter was deemed a great outrage, and was sent to Mr. Ball, as Acting Attorney General, with the request that he would have Mr. Smale punished for indecity, or some such other Consular offence. Mr. Ball seized the opportunity to display his devotion to the diplomatic service by moving the Chief Justice to strike Mr. Smale off the rerolls. The Chief Justice refused this but granted a rule nisi, to show cause why Mr. Smale should not be suspended until he had withdrawn the objectionable letter.

The entire profession took sides with Mr. Smale except Mr. Hazeland, who being Crown Solicitor for the Colony was placed gratis at the altar, of Consular indignity. The Chief Justice was too unwell to hear the case, and Mr. White took it. We need hardly say that that functionary dismissed it with the remark that Mr. Smale as a gentleman should have withdrawn the letter as it was unnecessarily discourteous.

Mr. Ball is now on the Bench. With the law made subservient to miserable temporary diplomacy—with Customs Commissioners called above Governors General—with instructions from the foreign Office habitually violated—with Orders in Council defied—with life held light, and property held lighter, we must say that a pretty prospect is before us.

We say the law is very defective—but still we say alter it, do not break it.

Relative Position of the Belligerents.

From the Bengal Hurkaru of 21st April.

The recent telegrams are apparently pregnant of disaster for the Confederates. Grant and Sheridan on the North, and Sherman on the South are gradually pushing them out of Virginia, and beyond the mountains, where Thomas with a large army flushed with success over the smaller army of Hood, will operate on their rear. Sherman has steadily pushed on, and his advance, quite as much as the fire of the fleet has led to the abandonment of the ports along the coast. The Confederates have withdrawn their forces, in the hope of gathering an army sufficiently strong to interpose a barrier between Sherman and Lee's right flank. They would seem to be doomed to disappointment. Their commanders have, as usual, been chased, and General Johnstone has assumed the command in front of his old antagonist Johnstone and Sherman, are both brave and both skilful, and hence the movements of either party are somewhat undecided. We learn almost in a breath, that Thomas is so close on a march eastward, that Schofield has been checked and beaten by Johnstone, and that this leader in his turn has been repulsed by Sherman. Meanwhile, great events have progressed to an end, disastrous for the Confederacy in Virginia. Early with inferior forces faced the gallant and energetic Sheridan, and was pushed back down the oft contested Shenandoah valley, till at last Sheridan felt himself in a position to cross the mountains, and effect a junction with Grant before Richmond. It is not quite certain whether this movement had been effected ere the armies before Richmond were put in motion. Grant had for his object the extension of his left, so as to interpose it between Lee and the Railways leading South; he would, if successful in this, not only seriously interfere with the provisioning of the Confederate capital and the army of Lee, but cut off the latter General from the army under Johnstone. As soon as what has been termed Grant's favorite movement became pronounced, there were rumours of an evacuation of Richmond. The Confederate leaders foresaw the result to which Grant's strategy, even more than his arms, must reduce them, unless indeed they would prevent his accomplishment by an overwhelming repulse. President Davis had already remarked upon the straits to which the capital was reduced, and had listened without anger to the proposal to give up the city, round which had centered so many and so varied threads of interest. Lee, too was conscious of the military necessity which existed for crippling, if possible, his enemy, until sufficient time had been gained to venue the populations of the Carolinas against Sherman, which whose defeat a new era of success and good fortune would probably dawn upon the Confederate. He therefore, appears to have moved out of his defences, and to have marched on Petersburgh, where he must have found Grant strongly posted with superior forces. The battles which ensued do not appear by the telegrams to have been of a very severe description, as Lee's losses are announced as being only four thousand in all, the Federals losing seven hundred. Now, judging by the spirit which must actuate each army and by the terrible slaughter which has invariably ensued upon their meeting in a pitched battle, we are led to think that these so-called battles could have been nothing more than reconnaissances in force. General Lee knows well, better than any one else, the vital importance of not risking the army under his command which may be regarded as the last stay of the Confederacy. We therefore, can easily understand, that his attack must have been more of a feeler to ascertain the position and strength of Grant's army, rather than a battle. The extension of the struggle to three days only proves his caution and determination to satisfy himself thoroughly on these points, without committing his army, before he would assume the responsibility of recommending to the Government the evacuation of Petersburgh and Richmond. The large number of guns taken is even less that might have been expected from the occupation of two such arsenals as Petersburg and Richmond. It takes a "wee thing" to make a small heart happy and we think the American captains, before declaring their ships with flags, might have remembered that Sherman's position is not secured, and that Lee's army is very far from being routed, although it is closely pursued. The whole history of the war shows us that a close pursuit means a leisurely following of the enemy to a new battle-ground of his own selection. Lee has taken post at Lynchburgh a town on the green Richmond and Knoxville Railway, from whence he can either check Grant, or unite his forces by a march to the right with Johnstone. The two Confederate armies are now on the same line, as to speak, and in a position to support or join each other as occasion may serve. Grant and Sherman may indeed effect a junction, but it would only be to find the enemy posted in a most difficult country with the mountains in the rear. The occupation of Richmond, to our minds, is more the result of the following out of a deliberate plan, on the part of the Southern leaders, than the effect of a great Northern victory. The fact is, this very retirement on Lynchburg was, to some extent anticipated by the Federals with no very pleasant feeling. Lee has retired to a line of country where he may persevere the war indefinitely, and where the Federals will have to abandon the advantages of their command of the coast and rivers to follow him. The war is not over, nor are the Confederates beaten. We shall wait with some anxiety for the news of the advance of Grant on Lynchburg, where unless he adds consummate tact to great abilities, he will, in all probability, find the grave of all the high hopes and bonnings of the North.

PENINSULAR & ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY,

NOTICE OF REDUCTION OF PASSAGE MONEY.

IN the year 1857 the Directors made a considerable reduction in the Company's rates of Passage Money, which continued in force till 1861.

In that year, owing to the extraordinary rise in the Cost and Freight of Coals, and the enhanced price of all descriptions of Naval Stores, the Directors were reluctantly compelled to return to the rates of Passage Money previously in force. They are now happy to state that a decrease in the price of Coal and other expenses of Steam Navigation enables them to reduce the Company's Passage rates to the undernoted scale, which will take effect from and after the 1st June next, viz:—

From Hongkong to—

Suez	$460
Malta	510
Marseilles	530
Gibraltar	530
Southampton	560

Reserved Rates for Single Persons.

Suez	$920
Malta	1,020
Marseilles	1,060
Gibraltar	1,060
Southampton	1,100

Reserved Rates for Married Couples.

Suez	$1,150
Malta	1,200
Gibraltar	1,340
Marseilles	1,340
Southampton	1,388

The charges for Children are in proportion to the above.

The above rates are exclusive of the amount payable to the Egyptian Transit Administration for conveyance of Passengers through Egypt, viz:—

For First-class Passengers, $32
Children above three and under ten years, half-fare.

By Order of the Managing Directors,

THOS. SUTHERLAND,
Superintendent.

Hongkong, 30th May, 1864.
